KBM Building Services Announces Merger with Moore Maintenance & Janitorial Services

San Diego's Largest Woman-Owned Janitorial and Building Services Company Grows to More Than 500 Employees, Now Servicing Accounts Throughout the United States and Canada

SAN DIEGO--(BUSINESS WIRE)--KBM Building Services, a Certified Minority Business Enterprise founded by Maureen Gray in 1981, has announced a strategic merger with Moore Maintenance & Janitorial Services (MM&JS). KBM Building Services, headquartered in San Diego, CA is a leading contract cleaning and building services company, providing 100 percent sustainable facility solutions to a wide range of clients from high tech, biotech, medical, manufacturing and educational institutions to retail centers, commercial office buildings, residential associations and hotels.

Following the merger with MM&JS, KBM will be expanding to provide integrated facility services with more than 500 employees and 350 subcontracting partners across the United States to include Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and internationally in Canada. KBM now has a larger infrastructure to grow in step with their client's evolving needs. "This merger greatly enhances KBM's position in the marketplace as one of the leading contract janitorial companies based in Southern California by now giving us a greater geographical presence," said Gray. "In addition, our national network of vendor partners which service our clients throughout North America has grown considerably."

MM&JS is also a Certified Minority Business Enterprise founded by John Moore and Scott Brill in 1983. "For over 25 years, MM&JS has strived and succeeded at fulfilling its clients and employees needs through clear communication, teamwork and integrity, with the desire to provide superior quality janitorial services at a competitive price," said Brill. Headquartered in Rancho Mirage, MM&JS provides contract cleaning services to commercial properties with a core focus on servicing national retail stores, banking centers and multi-tenant office buildings.

Maureen Gray founded KBM Building Services in 1981 and for over a decade KBM has been leading the cleaning industry in operational efficiencies and environmentally sound methods by employing the ManageMen® Operating System One (OS1)®, a process based safety and cleaning program. The process transitions their client's cleaning programs by utilizing more energy efficient equipment, effective labor allocation, in-depth employee training and EPA approved cleaning solutions; all proven to improve the indoor air quality, lessen the impact on the environment and reduce their clients operational costs. (OS1) is the only organization to date that has obtained scientifically verified statistics for a cleaning process. Some of the leading (OS1) users include Qualcomm, Northrop Grumman, The Boeing Company, Sandia National Laboratories (a division of Lockheed Martin), FBI Headquarters at Quantico and the University of Texas, among others.

KBM has achieved success and recognition in the industry and community by focusing on the unique needs of each customer and continually evolving to meet those needs. The core foundation of KBM's success has been built investing in their employees through in-depth training and incentives programs to create high employee satisfaction and retention. The San Diego Business Journal named KBM Building Services, "One of the Best Places to Work."
